Problem Statement: Forgetful people need simple but constant reminders to make sure all tasks get done. For those with busy schedules or those who forget things quickly, it's very easy to forget to finish tasks, leaving them half finished or completely unfinished. There should be a way to allow these people to set temporary reminders to make sure that all of their tasks get completed in the right time frame.